

Peter Davin

Peter Davin is CEO of Swedish company Cryptzone AB. He has worked in the software and communications industry in Scandinavia and the US for many years and is considered one of the veterans within the Data Leak Prevention/Information Protection industry.

Davin has considerable experience and knowledge of developing and leading medium sized businesses and has helped to launch over 20 companies during his career.

In 2001 he started Secured eMail with the intention of creating a company which would provide an affordable, easy-to-use yet technologically advanced solution for securing email communications. This idea quickly grew into many more products and solutions. The company eventually developed into Cryptzone, which is now a public company listed on the stock exchange in Sweden, Stockholm.

In late 2009, Cryptzone acquired IT security company AppGate Network Security and in 2010 it acquired ControlGuard.

A graduate in engineering, Davin has an MBA from Penn State University, USA, and a BA from the University of Gothenburg, Sweden. He is also with a board member of several other companies in Europe.
